Neighbors Come To Aid Of Mokena Fire Victims

There clothing and household furnishings destroyed by a fire that left them homeless in the middle of the snowstorm last Friday evening, the five members of the Lawrence Lynch family of Mokena still had a good Christmas.

They had a good Christmas and will begin the new year in a new home thanks to the generosity of neighbors and people in surrounding communities touched by news of their plight. Clothing for Mr. and Mrs. Lynch and their three children began coming in Saturday. Food also arrived and someone from Joliet sent a turkey to make sure of a proper Christmas dinner.

Gifts for the youngsters also came in so Christmas was really Christmas for them.

Supervisor George Tate of Frankfort, has rented an apartment for them on Division street in Mokena and the Mokena Lions club and the Mokena Chamber of Commerce, and the Salvation Army at Joliet have made cash contributions to enable the family to buy some of the things they need and get on their feet again.

Mr. Lynch is a welder in the employ of the Page Engineering Co. of Palos Park, but when one loses all furnishings and clothing -- uninsured incidentally -- it costs considerable to replace them on earnings alone.

Mayor Charles Swanberg, of Mokena, said it would take several days to have the new quarters ready for occupancy by the Lynches and in the meantime they are living with the Paul Charls family, their next door neighbors.

The two families had their Christmas together and the Charls have been helping in picking up the clothing and furnishings offered the fire victims. They picked up a drop leaf table and four chairs Monday that will be used in the new apartment, a gift from someone in Joliet. Donors living in Mokena and nearby communities, of course, have been bringing their contributions to the Charls home.

The two older children, Ben, 14 and Velma, 13, have received quite a bit of clothing but some is still needed for 3-year-old Margaret Ann. Mrs. Lynch wears size 16 dresses; Mr. Lynch wears trousers that are 34-34 in size.

Incidentally Margaret Ann is suffering from a cold and her fright from the fire has also made her quite nervous.

Members of both households are taking medication for colds but despite colds and losses they had an enjoyable Christmas.

The fire broke out shortly before 5 o'clock last Friday afternoon when the top of the oil furnace is said to have blown out. The flames spread swiftly thru the interior of the two story frame house and gave volunteer firemen from Mokena, Frankfort and New Lenox quite a battle.

According to the family they had been having trouble with the furnace and the agency thru which they were buying the house had agreed to fix it. Men came out at various times, it was said, and there was one who was there Friday. He is reported to have left about 3 o'clock, saying that the furnace was O.K. Less than two hours later the fire broke out, Mr. Lynch was at work, Mrs. Lynch and the children only had time to save themselves.

The Lynch home was on the east side of Wolf road, the second house south of Hickory creek. The Charls live in the first house south of the creek. The telephone number is 4321. Some things are still needed.

ARRESTED

William Drehle, 48, of 131 W. Illinois highway, was arrested by Frankfort Police Chief Francis Simon last Saturday night on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor. Simon also charged Drehle with disorderly conduct. He was taken to the Will county jail at Joliet from where he was released on bond. Drehle is scheduled to appear before Police Magistrate Robert Burn next Wednesday, Dec. 26. He is the first motorist to be arrested under the recently enacted ordinance aimed at driving while intoxicated.

Lincoln-Way Board To Sell Building Bonds On Jan. 17

Architects for Lincoln-Way high school are at work now completing tentative drawings of the proposed new addition and expect to have the working drawings ready so bids can be taken in March.

The Lincoln-Way board hopes it can have work begun on the addition around the first of April. Additional classrooms are a necessity, according to school administrators and they hope that some will be ready for use by September.

As the situation stands now, according to Supt. A. Hunter Chapman, it is likely that split shifts will be necessary in the fall unless there are some new rooms finished.

The first thing the board will do to further the building program will be to sell the bonds approved by the voters. On Dec. 15 the voters of the district gave approval to a bond issue of $750,000.

At its meeting last Thursday

Mokena Firm

Low Bidder On Job In Joliet

Blaine Saxton of Mokena was apparent low bidder for the Joliet west side water main installation.

His proposal of $39,008.25 was among four that were opened at Tuesday's city council meeting in Joliet. The line will run from the Campbell st. water tower to Glenwood ave. The main will also extend in Glenwood from Springfield Ave. to Broder Drive.

The proposal was $9,148 under the city engineering department estimate of $48,156. Other proposals came from D'Andrea Construction Co., 811 S. Richards St., $40,276.13; Foschi Brothers, 808 S. Joliet St., $42,570 and John Warren Excavating, New Lenox, $50,002.75.

night the board set the time for the bond sale at 7:30 p.m., Jan. 17. The bond market is reported favorable for sales at this time. There is not much activity in the market thru the holidays and it was believed bond prices will remain good thru January. Interest rates are attractive to sellers, which is to say that the interest rate is down.

The Lincoln-Way board made an official canvass of the bond issue vote and there were no changes. The issue carried 1,145 to 1,259, after having been defeated twice before earlier in the year.

The addition will include 25 classrooms, three physical education rooms, additional space for administration, guidance and health work, additional toilet facilities, kitchen space and a maintenance garage area where the school buses may be kept when not in use.

Blame Icy Road For Death Of Store Manager

Funeral services were conducted yesterday for Oliver Wilkinson, 25, of N. Brightway manager of the Ordman Park and Shop Food store at Mokena, who was fatally injured in an automobile accident last Friday night.

A passenger in his car, Fred Shunko, 26 years old, a factory worker, who lives on Woodland circle, is in Silver Cross hospital, Joliet. His condition is still regarded as serious. Last Friday night all the highways and streets of the area were blanketed by the first snow of the season heavy enough to stick. The mercury kept dropping and driving conditions became more and more hazardous.

Wilkinson worked late at the store Friday night, it was said, and they went to get something to eat. When he started back for Mokena near midnight, Shunko was with him.

According to state police who investigated the accident Wilkinson's car apparently struck an icy spot and went out of control. It skidded off the highway and slammed broadside into a tree.

The accident occurred on U.S. 45, north of 191st street near the Rock Island overpass.

The two men were taken to Silver Cross hospital where Mr. Wilkinson died shortly afterwards.

Shunko had some severe cuts about the head but the major injuries were internal and necessitated surgery. The doctor remained at his bedside for 12 hours. It is believed now that he will recover.

Oliver Wilkinson had been the manager of the Park and Shop market for the past five years. He was born at Robinson, Ill.

Besides his wife, the former Doris Yunker, Mr. Wilkinson is survived by two children, Teresa, 2 and Stephen, 11 months old of Mokena; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wilkinson, of Robinson and 12 brothers and sisters.

Funeral services were held yesterday from the Hirsch chapel at Tinley Park to St. John's United Church of Christ Mokena, with the Rev. Theodore J. Wimmeler officiating. Burial was in the St. John cemetery.

The 76,000 ton Independence was the leader of the fleet that was off Puerto Rico on maneuvers when the quarantine of Cuba was put into effect. Ron was a June graduate of Lincoln-Way.

Death Takes Doris Book

Funeral services for Mrs. Doris Book, nee Perry, 48 years old, of 11022 Third st., Mokena were held on Saturday, Dec. 22, in the Grace Episcopal church in New Lenox, with the Rev. Richard A. Crist officiating. Mrs. Book had been a patient at Silver Cross hospital for several months. She came home on Tuesday of last week and apparently had a relapse the following day and died on Wednesday, Dec. 19.

Mrs. Book was born in Valparaiso, Ind. on Dec. 10, 1914 and lived in Mokena with her husband and family for the past nine years.

Besides her husband, Eric, who is with the Andrew Corporation at Orland Park and is a former president of the Mokena volunteer fire department; Mrs. Book is survived by one daughter, Margo; two sons, Eric N. and James P.; two sisters, Mrs. Genevieve Engle, of Tinley Park and Mrs. Margaret Sommers, of Sturges, Mich., and one brother, George Perry of Riverdale, Ill.

MRS. EDWARD HOVI MOKENA 5740

The Arbury Hills Civic Association has reset its January meeting date for the 8th, since the first Tuesday of the month falls on New Year's Day. This meeting is the one during which the nominating committee is formed for the February elections.

The Civic Association board of directors meeting for January will take place on Wednesday, Jan. 2, at 8:00 p.m., at the home of Edward Hovi of 9448 West Hickory Street.

This meeting, as are all directors meeting, is an open meeting at which the public is welcome.

The Arbury Hills Baby Sitters Cooperative will hold its next meeting at the home of Mrs. John Hayden of 9437 West Pine Street on Wednesday, Jan. 9, at 8:00 P.M.

The Secretary's book will change hands from Mrs. Leonard Gunty to Mrs. Hayden. Anyone expecting to attend this meeting is requested to telephone Mrs. Hayden prior to the day of the meeting.

This is also an opportunity for any interested newcomers to attend and obtain any needed information about the organization.

The January meeting of the First Nighters will take place at the home of Mrs. Ann Maschmeyer of 9526 West Rosewood Lane on the evening of Thursday, January 3, at 8:00 P.M.

The Summit Hill school district now has an official Cub Scout Pack Number 10, due to the unstinting efforts of the Parent-Teacher Group who acted as sponsors for the organization, and 13 willing adults, who have put in many hours of tedious work necessary to the organization of Cub Scouting for the area.

At the present time there are three dens encompassed in Pack 10. Gene Pasky will act as head Cub Scoutmaster, with Mrs. Dorothy Dickerson as Denmother of Den 1, Mrs. Mary Ann Roach as Denmother of Den

2, and Mrs. Barbara Markowsky as Denmother of Den 3. Mrs. Doris Watkins will act as alternate denmother until such time that expansion of the group requires a fourth den.

The den meetings are held every week at the time and place specified by each denmother, usually held in the denmother's home.

There is, in addition, a monthly pack meeting held in which the entire group participates. The first monthly pack will be held at the end of January with the time and place to be announced. At the pack meeting there will take place the Bobcat Pinning ceremony, at which time all the boys will receive their Bobcat pins.

The first den meetings will take place within two weeks. Each denmother will notify the individual boys in her group as to the exact time and place.

Den 1 consists of five boys: Russel Dickerson, Brian Cutler, Joe Mangan, Tom Tanis and Steve Watkins.

Den 2 has six boys in the group: Jay Hamilton, Sam La Rocca, Alan McCarter, Stanley Pasky, William Roach and Tom Rowe.

Den 3 also has six boys: Joe Arcuri, Ken Lillie, Joe Daniels, Jeffery Klein, Jim Rochelle and Richard Homer.

In spite of the wonderful work of this group there is always room for more boys who would be interested in joining Cub Scouts. Anyone who is interested in joining, should contact Glenn Cullum of Mokena 4491.

There are tentative plans in the making for an outing for the new Cub Scouts sometime during the month of February.

The Boy Scouts, after their enjoyable Christmas party, have plans in the making for an overnight hike around the Boy Scout reservation called Camp Morris in Morris, Ill. This will take place in mid-January.

The boys on there recent one day hike around Joliet forest preserve area topped off the days activity with a rousing snow ball fight.

The Teen club held their Hay Rack Ride on Sunday, December 15, at which there were thirty-six young people present, and four adult chaperones.

The Teen club wishes to thank all those, both young people and adults who contributed to the success of this activity.

The next regular meeting of the Teen Club will be held on Monday, Jan. 14, since the fourth Monday in December falls on Christmas Eve.

At this meeting the members of the Teen Club are required to bring their semi-annual dues of $1 to remain as paid up members.

Since there was such a good turnout for the hay rack ride there will be other outings for this group, at which time it is hoped that the cooperation will be just as good.

The Brownies of Mrs. Heim and Mrs. Skinner received their one year pins at their combined birthday and Christmas Party. Those girls receiving their pins were: Cathy Crowder, Claudia Cullison, Barbara Durgin, Sandra Fife, Janet Karikos, Nan Kronick, Kathy Keto, Janice Maschmeyer, Jill Neumayer and Susan Osuch.

The Burdett Family, minus baby Patti who stayed with her grandma and grandpa Kraybill in Brookfield for the day, also went to see the Christmas windows and dine out in Chicago.

The Arbury Hills Kindergarten Organization will hold their January meeting at the home of Mrs. George Peterson of 9451 West Elm Avenue on the evening of Tuesday, January 15, at 8:00 P.M.

Hunters Deny Baiting Fields To Lure Ducks

(CNS) Five south suburban residents entered not guilty pleas before U.S. District Judge Edwin A. Robson Monday in a criminal complaint with hunting migratory game birds over baited ground on Nov. 3 at the Three Rivers Hunting club, near Wilmington, Ill.

They were: Kazye Dargie, 162 Alder, Chicago Heights; Harold E. Baude, Jr., of Route 1, Joliet; Richard E. Wehling of Beecher; and Fred F. Woodall of Wilmington, operator of the club, and Jack B. Woodall.

A sixth waived service of summons and also entered a not guilty plea. He is Joseph J. Daniels, 507 Warren, Calumet City.

A continuance to Dec. 21 was given to a seventh, Herbert F. Karner, 7919 Northcote Hammond, Ind.

Judge Robson ordered all defense pre-trial motions be filed by Jan. 4 and set Jan. 10 for disposing of them.

The maximum penalty is $500 fine and six months in jail. The criminal complaint, naming a total of 14 men, charges the hunting was over ground covered with whole kernels of corn.

Fred P. Woodall said a federal game warden who visited the scene found one kernel of corn as evidence.

Dr. Schweitzer Gives Views On The Congo

There is a lot of talk these days on the Congo situation. U Thant, secretary general of the United Nations appears bent on starting a war if necessary to force President Moise Tshombe of Kantanga to knuckle under to the Congo Republic.

He has been discussing military needs for the U.N. forces on the scene and naturally when it comes to getting money or supplies for some project in the Congo it is to the United States that Mr. Thant would turn, since no one else appears to be putting up any cash.

The United Nations has commission over in Africa now looking into things and our own state department has had some of its so-called experts running over from time to time for a fast view.

Such trips and such commissions cost a great deal of money and about the only thing that has been accomplished by such programs so far has been to find more ways in which the United States can throw more money away.

One other thing has been accomplished. The U.N. is definitely on the side against Tshombe and Kantanga and most of the articles and news stories from the U.N. and releases from our own state department leave the general impression that Tshombe is a bum because he will not turn over the riches of his state to the Congo Republic.

We don't pretend to know any thing about the Congo question but we did read an Associated Press dispatch last week that made sense to us. And it seems that if the U.N. and the state department would like to get some information on the subject from someone who knows Africa and Africans, and all for just the price of a newspaper, they could read said dispatch with profit.

The dispatch we have reference to deals with an interview with Dr. Albert Schweitzer, world famous and respected medical missionary, philosopher and author. Dr. Schweitzer is no Johnny-come-lately on the African scene. He has spent nearly a half century in equatorial Africa.

His letter, in response to one asking his advice on the Kantanga question was written from his jungle hospital of Lambarene, Gabon Republic, which was formerly a part of French Equatorial Africa, that borders the Congo. Thousands of Africans are treated at this hospital and there is also a leper village that it operates nearby.

"My advice...is that of an old African hand who has been living almost 50 years in an area near the Congo," Dr. Schweitzer wrote.

"Here it is--the era of colonialism does not exist anymore and the colonial empire of the Congo does not exist any more either.

"Surviving are only two pieces of this empire formed by people and tribes which, under the rule of colonialism, were part of what was the Belgian Congo. Neither has any claims on the other, neither has any obligations toward the other. They are juridically absolutely independent of one another.

"No war undertaken by one against the other to suppress it in any way has any juridical foundation. -- --"

"The mission of the United Nations is not to make war."

He declares that reason and justice demand immediate withdrawal of troops and acknowledgement of Kantanga's independence.

FARM ADVISER

Three new alfalfa varieties have joined the Illinois recommended list from 1963. All three have performed well in agronomy department test plots. Each may fit a specific role on your farm.

CODY, a new Kansas variety, is recommended as an alternate to Buffalo. It yields as well as Buffalo and has the same winter-hardiness and disease resistance. During 1963 seed supplies of Cody will probably be plentiful and favorably priced. Buffalo, on the other hand, is in very short supply. If you have liked Buffalo, Cody provides an excellent alternative.

FD-100, is a new variety similar in yield and performance to DePuits and Alfa. It is early maturing, fast recovering, and somewhat tolerant of insect and leaf diseases. Agronomists recommend FD-100 for use in short rotations where alfalfa will stay down for only one or two harvest hay years. It is similar to DuPuits and Alfa in susceptibility to bacterial wilt. This disease may kill it out in the third harvest year but will do little harm before that time.

Plan to harvest FD-100 early. Like DuPuits and Alfa, it starts early, grows fast, and matures early. Quality will fall off if you delay harvest into June.

MOAPA is recommended as a catch crop for plow-down. It locks winter-hardiness, so don't plan on it for a hay or pasture crop. Like the non-hardy alfalfas, it does not become dormant in the fall, but keeps growing vigorously until freeze-up. Certified seed of Moapa is available and favorably priced and should be first choice for plow-down.

Varieties recommended for Illinois now include three types of alfalfas, DuPuits, Alfa, and FD-100 will give top yields of hay or pasture for one or two years. Vernal is outstanding for short or long rotations, while Buffalo and Cody do well in southern Illinois. Ranger can be grown anywhere in Illinois, but newer varieties are superior.

Farmers have asked from time to time about safflower, sesame, guar, and castorbean production. Safflower is a profitable oilseed crop in the western United States, it does rather poorly in Illinois.

R. O. Weibel, University of Illinois plant breeder, says that summer conditions in Illinois include too much moisture and humidity for profitable safflower production. In a seven-year test conducted at the U. of I., the average yield was 601 pounds per acre. This is far below yield levels in the west, where the average is 1,700 pounds.

The oil content of seeds grown in Illinois is half that of seeds grown in the west. The average oil content there ranges from 32 to 40 percent.

Three other crops -- castorbeans, sesame and guar -- are also receiving attention in various parts of the United States. But at present none of these crops appear sufficiently adapted to Illinois conditions. Yields have been low, quality poor and oil content unsatisfactory.

Farmers would be alarmed if their next tax bill showed an

On Second Thought

By GLENN F. LOGAN

Jefferson P. Throttlebottom, eminent member of the Free-loaders Society who will accept practically anything that isn't too hot or too heavy as long as it comes to him gratis, was thumbing thru a copy of some of the poems of Robert Service that someone had passed along to him.

He read a line or two aloud from "The Cremation of Sam McGee."

"One need not go to the arctic," he broke off, "nor the orient or any other place to see strange sights."

He paused a few moments to sip some coffee that one of the crew had brought in, and then resumed.

"I saw something the other night in a neighboring village that I never expected to see outside of a movie lot. I had encountered an old friend of mine, Brian De Boru Finnegan, at Hallihan's Tap, and in the course of conversation he invited me to ride out into the country with him to pick up a turkey his wife had ordered for the holidays."

"Brian said he would have settled for a turkey from the store but his wife had a notion that if they got a homegrown one, right off the farm where it had been raised, it would be better. So she had seen an ad in the paper where such turkeys were to be had and had ordered one and now Finnegan had to go out and pick it up."

"Well, I had nothing to do that couldn't wait, so off we go. Finnegan had general directions on how to find this place but decided it would be best if we stopped off in this town to make sure."

"There is a nice saloon there," Finnegan said, "and I am sure they can tell us how to get to this turkey place as quick as quick, so we will be saving time to stop there even though we take time for a glass or two."

"This was alright with me because if Finnegan said there was a nice saloon in the place you could bet on it because I believe there wasn't a bar within a 30 mile radius that he hadn't been in one time or another."

"Well, we pull into this little town and Finnegan pulls into a parking space at the end of a block. Right in front of us is a horse trailer and we can see there is a horse in it. Our car lights show the horse is wearing a white blanket and when it turned its head to see what was going on we see it has a white hood, with holes in it for its eyes and ears."

"A Ku Kluxer," breathed Finnegan, "if he was wearin' green now, he'd be a fine looking horse."

"As we were getting out a couple of men came up to the rear of the trailer. We heard one of them tell the horse to step down as we started up the side walk. A minute later we know we weren't alone for behind us we could hear the footsteps of two men and the unmistakable footstep of a neat stepping horse. Near the next corner, where the saloon stood, the street climbed sharply and there was a set of steps. As we went in the place we could hear the horse taking the steps like a goat."

"Odd," said Finnegan, as we settled against the bar.

"What's odd?"

"Odd that a horse should be using the sidewalk," he explained, and this is odder yet. Look!" and he pointed to the front door.

"The door was wide open and thru it came the two men and the horse. The three of them stepped up to the bar."

"A man who looked like he had had enough, he was weaving a little, was just raising his glass when the horse came up beside him, and blew as horses do. The man blinked a couple of times, shut his eyes for several seconds and then opened them, blinked again, set his glass down, walked swiftly to the door as straight as a stick and disappeared."

"Well, gents," said one of the increase of $10 per acre. Yet weeds are now levying such a tax on many farms today. Research at the University of Illinois shows that weeds "collect their tax" by robbing crops of nutrients, moisture and light

Now is the time for year-end tax planning. A University of Illinois farm management specialist reminds farmers to estimate likely income and expenses between now and the end of the year. If your estimated income for 1962 is much below or above the average of the past years, now is the time to get "tax wise." Usually the less your taxable income fluctuates over the years, the better off you are.

horse's companions. "Here he is. Here is a race horse, A Bit O'Green. Now where is that guy who said he never saw a race horse and didn't believe I had one outside?"

"That guy, it was discovered, was asleep in a chair over in a corner and efforts to wake him produced only grunts and some disjointed phrases which could be interpreted as to go away and leave him alone."

"Finnegan, who had been eyeing the horse rather coldly, thawed when he heard the animal's name, and became sympathetic:

"Ah, the poor horse," he said, "A shame it is that he a good Irish horse should be going around dressed like one of those Klan klegals. I'd like to buy your horse a drink," he said to the owner.

"Thank you kindly," the man replied, but the Green don't drink. He has to keep in training."

"Oh," said Finnegan, "then how about a sandwich? He'll eat a sandwich won't he?"

"Sure," the owner said, and turned to the bartender, "give him a cheese on rye...with mustard but skip the pickle...He don't like pickles."

"A man who had been floating about barged into the conversation.

"Does he play pinocle?" he asked, "I've been trying to get another pinocle game going and if you and your partner and the horse would like to sit in I'd be grateful...Somebody could suffice the cards for the horse when it was his turn to deal," he dded hopefully.

Whether the horse would have played pinocle is something I never learned because at this juncture the town law came in.

"What's that horse doing here?" he demanded.

"Well, Sam," spoke up a player in the only pinocle game that was going, "as near as I can tell from here he is standing there by the bar eating a sandwich. Isn't that right, fellows?"

"That's right, chorused the other occupants.

"No one had any objections to the horse's presence. Had it been in a city bar, now, at the rush hour when all the home-going office workers and executives come thronging in for a couple of quick ones before grabbing a train there probably would have been some complaints because a horse takes up about nine feet of space if he stands sideways to the bar. And there would have been some clamor and injunctions to 'throw the bum out,' if they found out he was a race horse, especially from those who may have bet on him sometime when he was out of the money. But here everything was peaceful.

"Finnegan then took issue with the policeman. He pointed out that this was a tavern and that under law and tradition extending back to ancient times taverns were required to meet the needs of man and beast.

"This horse, now, he went on, was not a drinking horse, he was a peaceable, hardworking animal, and if he had a few minutes of relaxation among friends he would run all the better for it on the morrow."

"The officer protested that to have a horse in a tavern was unsanitary. Finnegan looked pointedly at the room.

"There's no evidence of that," countered Finnegan.

"The officer conceded this was so and Finnegan defied the chief to find anything in the law relating to saloons that would bar a horse from a bar, as it were. As a matter of fact, Finnegan declared, under a strict interpretation of the statute concerning segregation he would find that a horse had as much right in a saloon as a man, or a woman, especially a woman. Anyway, for all the officer knew the horse may have just paused at the bar for a moment to greet friends before going on to the rear where the pool tables were to get in a little practice.

"That was where Finnegan erred. The officer had been frowning and knowing his lip. Now his face brightened.

"How old is this horse?" he asked the owner.

"He's a two year old," the man answered, "And a good one. Got him entered in the Juvenile Stakes at..."

"That's it," interseped the police chief. "You all heard the man. He said this horse was a juvenile and the village ordinance covering the licensing of pool tables prohibits the use of, or the loitering about such, by juveniles. The ordinance don't say what kind of juveniles, and in my book a juvenile horse is just as much of a juvenile as a juvenile boy or a juvenile girl, for that matter, so out he goes."

"Everybody conceded the logic of this, even Finnegan. I said everybody conceded the logic of the chief's position. I should have said everybody but the horse because as he stepped daintly toward the door he slowed as he passed the officer he let him know what he thought and now there was evidence that the health authorities could have used.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

LIONS EXPRESS VIEWS ON FAI 80

Dear Sir:

The board of directors of the Mokena Lions club passed a motion strongly endorsing the role of the Semmler Press and its editor for the publicity regarding the problems of the new highway 1-80. It is this type of continued publicity that is necessary for the powers-that be to find the means and inclination to get on the job and build the stretch between Joliet and Hazel Crest in the immediate future.

The Lions represent a service organization and are vitally interested in all matters that concern the welfare of the citizens and transportation is such a concern.

We are informed that Northwestern university studies on population growth show that a large surge in the Golden Triangle area may well be underway by 1965 and that the present highway #30 cannot handle the increased traffic safely. This presents an additional danger to the children in the area who must cross #30.

News items have told of contracts having been let for the construction of the high level bridge in Joliet for 1-80 and state that construction of the gap between Joliet and Hazel Crest will be postponed for several years pending the completion of this bridge.

The preference in building west of Joliet to the Iowa border rather than east is most difficult to understand since there is little industry and population west of Joliet as compared with that to the east. Further, all authorities on population movements state that the population surge will be between Hazel Crest and Joliet. The heavy industrial expansion in the Hammond-Gary area and the industry and population of the west coast insure the need for transportation of the best which #30 cannot carry. If this highway situation is not corrected prior to the expected population surge by 1965 in this area, our area will be faced with serious slum conditions.

MORE ON ZONING

Dear Sir:

There is attached herewith, a reproduction of an article titled "Four Zoning Appeals Denied - Cite Need for County Building Code" which appeared in the Joliet Herald News of Tuesday, Nov. 27, 1962.

This article covers a number of zoning matters which came before the Will county supervisors the day before the news release mentioned above.

We would like to call attention to generalizations which could be inaccuracies of vital facts. The item states that Albert Krusemark, attorney for Futuristic Homes, Inc. and the Mutual National Bank of Chicago who sought re-zoning of indicated acreage, declared rezoning was a necessity for compliance with a large segment of the population of the Mokena farm area.

He was quoted at stating that "330 land owners or 90 per cent are opposed to industrial zoning there."

1. Was this statement a part of the official record at the supervisor's hearing on this rezoning matter and if so, is there any record of proof of this statement as to the number against the zoning for industrial use?

2. The news item does not state the source of this claim that "330 land owners or 90 per cent" of the area are against industrial zoning. It may be that this statement is based on a petition that was circulated in Mokena and surrounding area in 1959 when the present Arbury Hills group was considering a building project just to the east

It is expected that the market upswing will soon include what have been called the "glamour stocks" and intermediate grades of investment situations.

The railroads are now receiving more individual and institutional investment attention than has been the case for quite some time. Some of the rails offer attractive situations now that the industry is emerging from a long period of stagnation. It is not generally realized that the rails have been leaders in automation and have a much lower labor cost than that of a few years back. Skyrocketing labor costs forced emphasis on labor saving aids. Final decision on the feather bedding litigation, will be of considerable aid.

Predictions of good business and favorable stock market activity, is being confirmed by a large number of increased earnings reports and is dividend increases.

of Mokena.

The petition in question was being used to convince the Mokena trustees that they should assent to residential use of this area rather than industrial as suggested by the Land Use Plan of the Mokena plan commission.

The petition was never in the hands of the village trustees and those circulating the petition did not desire to leave the original with the trustees. A copy of this petition was promised to both the village trustees and the plan commission, but never delivered for checking. James C. Marti, then mayor, advises that he tried several times to secure a copy of this petition without success. The plan commission requested a copy altho the plan commission did not even have a request for approval of the re-classification before it. The plan commission never had a formal request for change of land use before it. No vote was ever taken. The minutes of the commission will show this.

The whole matter became involved in charges and counter charges of unfair handling without anything specific being suggested and was the subject of hearing before the trustees rather than the plan commission.

3. A point of interest and possibly only an error in mathematics is as regards the figure "330 land owners". Lawrence Kohl has counted the number of farmers owning land in the one and a half mile area of Mokena and comes up with the figure as 28. He did the same for the Summit School District (#161) and the figure is 34 in this instance and covers quite an area.

The petition in question was hurriedly gotten together by number of persons who were then opposed at this time due to realization of the tax penalties visited where no industries aid in carrying the load and also closer study of those areas which did not want industry and now find it highly desirable, but too late. Few people at that time realized that the gas company, telephone and railroad companies and electric utility pay about 30 per cent of Mokena's tax bill, - at present.

(Former chairman of the Mokena plan commission.)

THE ROSTOW PLAN

Dec. 16, 1962

Dear Sir:

Walt Whitman Rostow made a trip to Russia as an emissary of JFK in November 1960. When he returned, he brought with him some ideas which are reflected in his masterpiece, "The Rostow Foreign Policy Guide." He was questioned by the senate in June, about this "secret document." The hearing was so arranged and conducted that nothing of value was disclosed because he was advised by under secretary of state George W. Ball, to invoke "the executive privilege." This is an instrument used to deny congress the access to government records.

Mr. Rostow as our chief policy planner is of the belief that Russia is mellowing. Nothing could be farther from the truth and he knows it. Russia is determined to dominate the world. Such is not exactly a remote possibility in view of the actions of our government. We do not need to see or read the "Rostow Guide," to know what it contains. The "primrose route" which our state and defense departments are following, should give a hint.

Russia does not want a war any more than do you and I. Nikita knows that he has a very good chance to take us by the "coexistence method." Our NATO missile bases do aggravate him and so do our B-52 and B-58 bombers. He is almost positive that they will not be used against him except for defensive reasons. This is why he is so careful about doing more than starting brush fires.

He is desirous of denuding the United States of these threatening weapons and our policy planners are obliging him. The manned bomber programs were halted shortly after January 1961. Now a measly 50 million has been released from a Congressional Appropriation of 400 million to finish development of the B-70. This is nothing short of a foot dragging action. The TFX super bomber program is being started but will require years of paper work and testing before we get the first one. It may be dropped before completion as was the Skybolt missile program.

Spain has been disenchanted with our foreign policy for some time therefore our bases there may not be allowed to remain. Portugal is thinking of refusing to renew leases on bases because we did not vote with her in the UN regarding the acquisition of Goa by India. England is now considering the removal of our bases because of the abandonment of the Skybolt program upon which they were depending. France does not look upon this cancellation with enthusiasm either.

We are really "moving forward" rapidly toward disarmament. This is the "Rostow plan" in action. Maybe in 64, we will hear about the "Arms Gap" which certainly will not be "MYTH" as was the "Missile Gap" in 60.

Patriotically yours,

Henry W. Hicks

Frankfort Village Board To Adopt Building Code

The Frankfort village board spent most of its last session Monday night in discussing building, plumbing and electrical codes with Village Attorney Albert H. Krusemark.

The trustees have agreed on the passage of these measures and Krusemark will have them in form for passage at the next regular meeting of the board which will be Jan. 7.

The building and electrical codes to be adopted are the national codes advocated by the National Fire Underwriters, with the exception of a few sections which would not be applicable to Frankfort.

The new ordinances will become effective 30 days after passage, Krusemark said.

It was also decided beginning Jan. 1, and ante-dating the adoption of the codes, that all building permits will come from the village building inspector and none will be issued at the village hall. No changes in the cost of building permits is contemplated.

The trustees confirmed the appointment of Henry Omer, Connecticut Hills, as civil defense director for Frankfort. The appointment was made by Mayor George Sangmeister. Omer is an electrician.

Bandits Rob Fruit Stand Proprietor

Two negroes armed with pistols held up Sol Williams, just east of New Lenox Sunday afternoon and they drove off. They obtained between $120 and $150, the victim told State Trooper Jim Brockman who investigated the robbery.

Williams operates a vegetable and fruit stand on the southeast corner of the intersection of Lincoln highway and Cooper street. He told police that the two men came up with drawn guns and demanded money.

Both wore black leather coats, Williams said. Three bandits, two of them armed, robbed a dairy at Crete over the week-end and made off with approximately $2,000 in cash.

One of the bandits was described as a dark complexion and wearing a black leather coat. At Crete, however, it was thought the robbers were white with one of them apparently of Mexican descent.

Revenooers Getting Ready

(CNS) Midst all the spending and joyfulness of Christmas, the income tax collector reminded last week that a day of reckoning - with Uncle Sam - is coming, and not too far off.

The occasion was the release of the first 1962 tax forms, to bulk users like accountants and lawyers. Most individual taxpayers will wait to get theirs in the mail a day or two after New Year's.

As a cheerful note, District Director of Internal Revenue Eugene C. Coyle also made available, immediately, tables showing how much deduction for sales taxes can be claimed by average families not caring to figure it out. He warned, though, that those with major purchases, like a new car, should not use that figure and the table, since large appliance purchases were included in the average. This might give the economy-minded something to figure on while waiting for the Christmas bills to come in.

The only things new about this year's Form 1040, which most people use, are that it has a space to ask for your refund in U. S. savings bonds, should be signed below page 2 instead of Page 1 (to avoid forgetting), and has an item for "Investment Credit," which applies only to business.

Hints For Homeowners

BY JAMES FIZZELL
ASSOC. FARM ADVISER
To keep Christmas gift plants at their best, try to provide growing conditions similar to those in the greenhouse where they were grown.

Be sure to water plants sufficiently, but avoid overwatering. Give them water when they need it in order to keep the soil moderately wet. Check the plant at least every morning and test the moisture content of the soil. Once the soil is thoroughly moistened, don't water again until it begins to dry out. Remember that plants in cool rooms need less water than those in a warmer, drier atmosphere. Strangely enough, soil often dries more rapidly in winter, when the home is artificially heated and humidity is low, than in normal summer weather. Never allow plants to go for long in soil that is waterlogged or bone dry. In either case, roots will be damaged. Wilting never benefited any plant. Ordinary tap or well water is usually satisfactory for watering plants. Use it at room temperature. Rain water or melted snow is excellent, but DO NOT use home-softened water on pot plants.

Be sure that drainage is adequate for your plant. If necessary, poke a hole through fancy wrappings to free drainage channels. Plants in jardinières or papier mache containers should never stand in water very long. Plants with "wet feet" soon look sick — the flowers begin to wither and the leaves turn yellow and may fall.

Although certain plants require more light than others, all flowering plants need moderately bright light to keep them in good condition. Most flowering plants need bright light the greater part of the day. South, east or west windows are usually excellent locations.

But keep plants that are in bloom out of direct sunlight. The sun's heat wilts flowers quickly.

Avoid abrupt changes from a relatively dark sport into very bright light, and vice versa. Such changes will do more damage than if the plant had a chance to become gradually acclimated to the new situation.

Try to keep plants in the proper temperature. For most gift plants, try to find a bright spot where temperatures will range from 65 to 75 degrees F. during the day and between 50 and 55 degrees F. at night. This may mean moving them to a cooler room at night or placing them on a sun porch that warms up in the daytime but cools off sufficiently after sundown. At any rate, lower the thermostat at night in winter.

Keep plants out of either hot or cold drafts and well away from radiators and hot-air registers. Don't worry about fertilizing gift plants. In most cases they come from the florist in healthy condition, and they don't need fertilizer.

It is probably best to discard most pot plants when they have finished blooming.

LET'S START THE NEW YEAR -- SAFE AND SANE DON'T BE A '62 STATISTIC LOOK AHEAD FOR 1963

OK PAL!

THE NEXT ONE'S ON ME

3109 DEC 62 M.F. 6.8

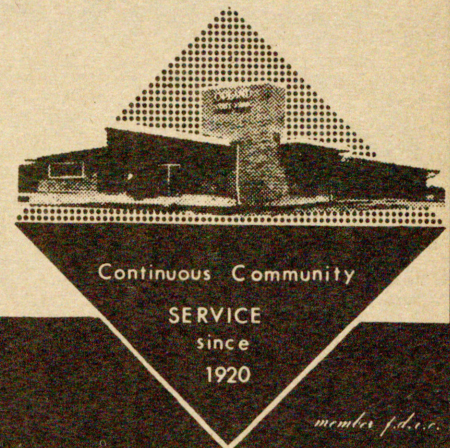

The grim spectre isn't kidding. That "one for the road" may well take you all the way into eternity. Holidays and week-ends are the times of greatest danger... the highest casualty lists. More drivers are on the road in more of a hurry, traffic is congested, driving strain increases. Add to this potion, the drinking driver... and the mixture is DEADLY!

It's hard to convince a person who has had a few drinks that he shouldn't drive. Alcoholic stimulation engenders a false confidence in his ability. In reality, his reactions have slowed down, his perception and judgment are lowered — driving alertness is gone. Soon the road blurs and lights blind, as he fights drowsiness. Finally he loses control. Result: tragedy. Keep out of this grim picture. If you drink, don't drive... if you drive, DON'T DRINK!
